an adventure before the adventure?

We’re inviting you guys to get off that Skyscanner app already and consider a little more adventurous and sustainable route to your starting point by avoiding air travel altogether.
You’ll get the chance to tick another few beautiful spots off that bucket list en route, and arrive happy you’ve done your bit. We’ve put together a blog post with some ideas, or one of our content creators James covered his epic journey last year.

pre-travel checklist

Travel insurance

Please ensure your policy covers sailing, and if asked, you will not be sailing more than 12 miles offshore (its a typical exclusion) at any time throughout the week.

Packing list

Swimmies and sunnies are your basics, but we've got a handy list of things you might want to bring to fully enjoy the armada experience.

arrival & departure

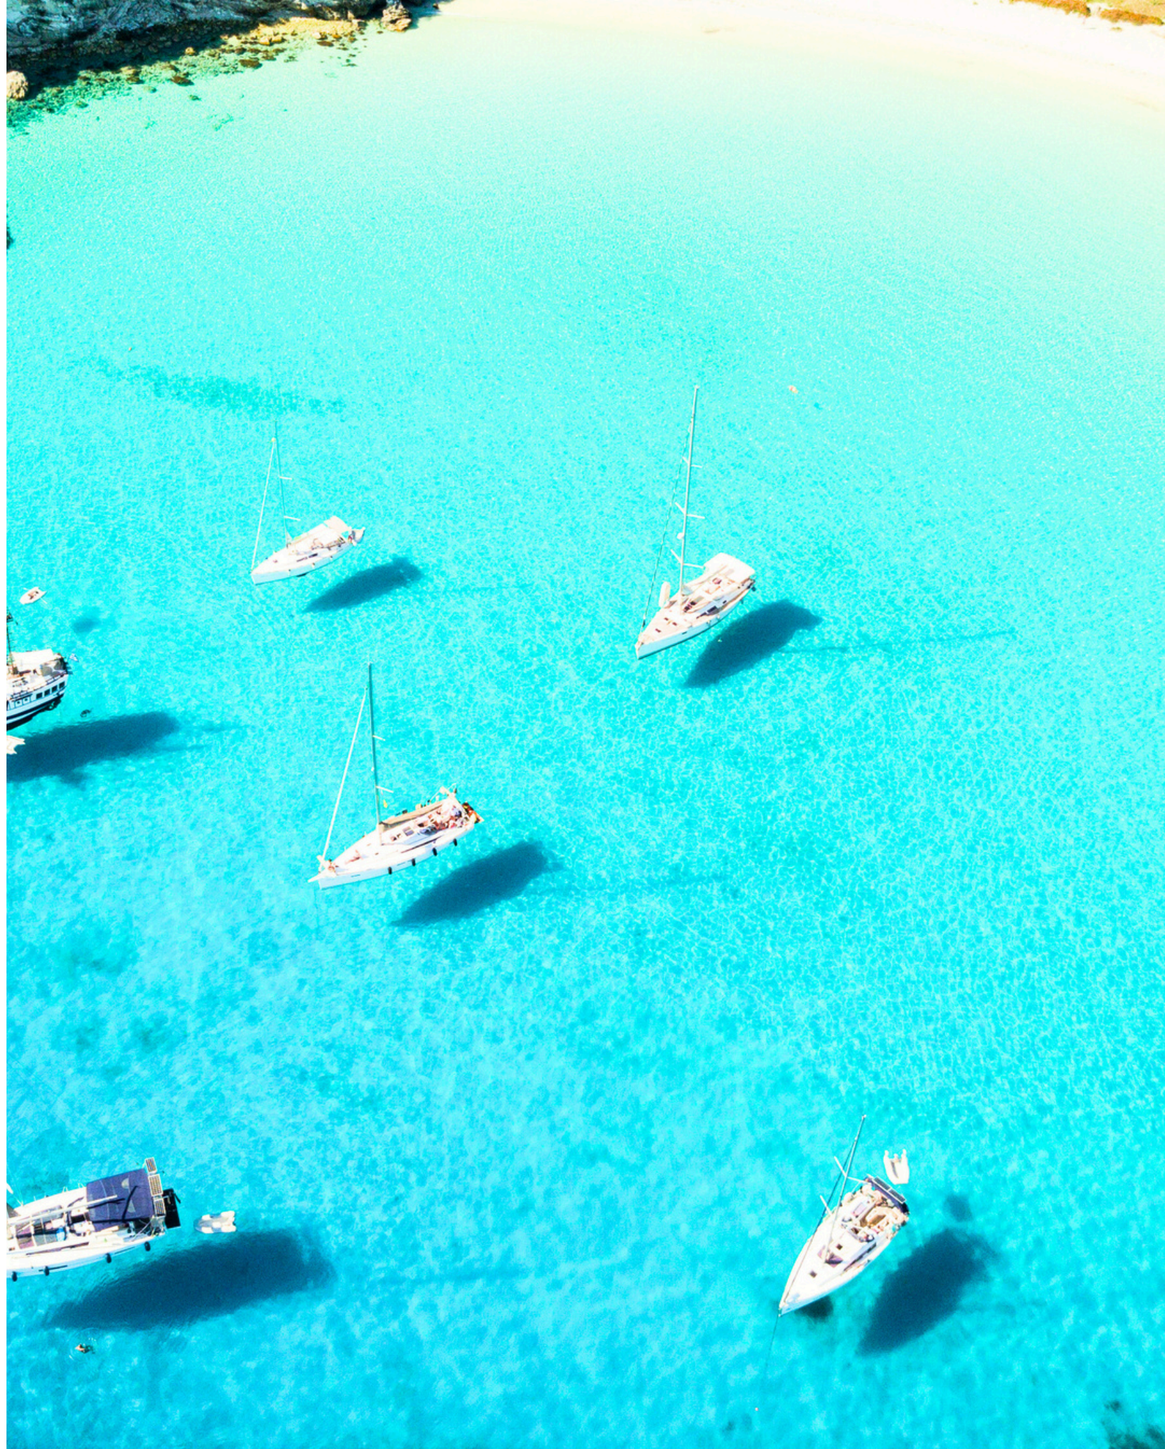

You'll start and finish your week from a base in Trogir. Trogir town is located just 10 kilometers from Split Airport.

Trogir, Croatia
Your E-Ticket will be sent to you a few days before you travel with final arrival instructions, including the name and address of the marina in Trogir where your yacht will be moored.

Check in opens at 4pm on Saturday afternoon but yachts are often not ready until 6pm. If you get there early, relax with a drink in the sunshine and wait for your floating home to be ready. If you're a skipper of a self-skippered yacht, please arrive at the marina by 2pm so you can start check in on your yacht as soon as it's ready.

If you’re arriving after 7pm, our check-in tent will be packed away. Please head straight to your yacht (details will be sent to you).

Checkout...we will return to base by 3pm on Friday afternoon. You must be off your yacht by 6pm on Friday evening getting to base

the closest airport to our base is Split Airport. You can also fly to Zadar or Dubrovnik, which means a longer transfer in Croatia, but flight prices are often cheaper. From here...

taxi

Metered taxis operate from outside the arrivals building and a taxi from the airport to Trogir will cost around €30.

bus from split airport

Bus 37 departs every 20 minutes and takes approximately 15 minutes to get to Trogir Town, dropping you on the main road by the Supermarket.

bus from zadar

Zadar to Trogir takes around 2 hours and costs approximately €10 per person. We can also organise direct transfers in a mini-van, which costs €30-40 per person for up to 8 people. Just drop us an email.

transfers

JamTransfer is a multi-national company dedicated to airport taxi and transfer services if you would prefer to book in advance

contacts for you

If you need anything on your way to base, please call James (+44 7739 731329)

On the way to base, you should receive a message from your skipper or armada rep (on Whatsapp) who from that point on will be your main point of contact.
